FOUR KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

TRAIN DEMOLISHES
AUTO; SMALL CHILD
ORPHANED BY CRASH

Unprotected Big Four Crossing Scene Of Tragedy

MARION, O., March 29.—The lives of four persons today had been snuffed out by one of the worst grade crossing crashes in the history of Marion County, and a four-year-old boy, who escaped with only slight injuries and who spread the news after the crash, had been orphaned.

Roaring through the darkness over an alleged unprotected grade crossing in a sparsely populated residential district here, a Big Four flyer struck the victim's automobile, which had already crossed one set of tracks safely. Four of the five passengers in the machine were killed outright, and the fifth escaped miraculously.

Those dead are: Mrs. Nancy Stephens, 60; William J. B. Stephens, 33, a son; Mrs. Harriet Stephens, 27, the latter's wife; and their son, Ralph Stephens, aged 9. All were residents of Columbus.

Another son, Lester Floyd Stephens, 4 years old, was the only survivor of the tragedy, and was left an orphan.

Police sought vainly for a witness to the accident. According to the authorities, there are no signs of danger at the crossing. There are neither flasher lights, watchman, nor gates there, they declared, and the vision up and down the track was obstructed by street lights.

Lester, the 4-year-old boy, was thrown clear of the automobile when it was struck by the train, it is believed, although the boy could give no account of the accident. Frightened, he ran to the home of nearby relatives, to which the party was enroute, and notified them.

The automobile was carried 200 feet down the track. One body was on the tender of the locomotive, another was extracted from the wreckage of the car, and two others were strewn along the right-of-way. All were badly mangled.

ARREST OF YOUTHS CLEARS UP ROBBERY

INDIANAPOLIS, March 29.—Two Indianapolis youths have admitted the $1,500 hold-up of the Donaldson-Omar Bakery in Columbus, O., and have confessed to committing a formidable list of crimes, Indianapolis police said today.

The youths are Donald Joseph, 22, and Paul Pierce, 19, both violators of paroles from the Indiana State Reformatory.

In the Columbus robbery, the two men admitted that they held nine persons at bay with revolvers and eluded two squads of police by circling about winding roads in a cemetery.

After the Columbus robbery, the two met in Mansfield, O., where they, in a spirit of jest, decided to make an inspection tour of the Ohio State Reformatory, but were refused admittance, they were alleged to have told local police.

FOUR INJURED IN RAIL WRECK

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—Four trainmen were injured, two probably fatally, early today when a fast New York-Wilmington freight train of the Pennsylvania railroad was wrecked at the Frankford junction of the lines here. The engine overturned and fourteen freight cars with their contents were strewn over the entire five tracks, tying up all traffic.

High voltage electric power lines with their supporting towers were torn down, adding to the damage.

The two most seriously injured were Engineer John P. Hagan, Philadelphia, and Arthur Robinson, Jersey City, fireman, who were crushed, burned and scalded.

PICKREL WILL NOT RUN; BACKS WHITE

DAYTON, O., March 29.—William G. Pickrel, former lieutenant governor, whose name has been mentioned frequently in connection with the Democratic gubernatorial race, which he was expected to enter, today had announced that he would not throw his hat into the ring for the governorship, but that he would lend his support to George White, Marietta's candidate and former national Democratic chairman.

With Pickrel definitely out of the race, the Democratic candidates for governor, are now White, Dan Gallagher, Cleveland newspaperman, and Stephen Young, Cleveland attorney.

COMMITTS SUICIDE AFTER SHOOTING RELATIVE

CLEVELAND, March 29.—Ross W. West, 43, a painting contractor, who, according to police, shot and seriously wounded his brother-in-law, Oliver Hickman, 28, and attempted to take the life of his wife Mrs. Ruth West, following a domestic quarrel last night, died here today from self-inflicted bullet wounds.

Hickman was reported in a serious condition at emergency clinic hospital today. He was not expected to live.

Mrs. West, the dead man's wife, told authorities her husband became angered during an argument over a proposed visit from some of West's relatives.

West fired two charges into Hickman's back and head from a double-barreled shotgun, according to Mrs. West. He then re-loaded the weapon and aimed at his wife. She knocked the gun aside, however, and with that the infuriated man ran into another room of the house where he placed the muzzle of the gun against his head and fired.

NO FOOLING!

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Babies born after April 1 will be considered "unborn" and persons who died after that date will be tabulated as "alive" in the 1930 decennial census, according to instructions which were issued today by the census bureau. The census will be compiled as of April 1.

"Getting everybody counted once in the place where they belong and nobody counted more than once is one of the biggest problems the census bureau has to consider," the commerce department said.

BITUMINOUS COAL OPERATORS BATTLE ON FREIGHT RATES

Combat Pennsylvania And Ohio Groups
Over Rates

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Battle lines were drawn today by bituminous coal operators in West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky to combat the efforts of Pennsylvania and Ohio operators to bring about a change in freight rates on lake cargo coal.

At a secret conference here these operators organized a "property owners committee," from which within the next ten days will be selected a central committee composed of operators from the regional districts involved, which will conduct the fight.

The first step this central committee will take will be to file a petition with the interstate commerce commission to intervene in the complaint of Pennsylvania and Ohio operators charging that present freight rates on lake cargo coal give the southern operators an unfair advantage in this highly profitable trade.

A surprise move may be made by the railroads handling lake cargo coal. They are expected to take the position before the commission, having finally adjudicated the lake cargo case, there is no justification for reopening it.

DEFER SENTENCE IN MURDER CASE

Sentence will be pronounced either Monday or Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy upon Elias Chaney, 26, R. R. No. 2, Cedarville, who had pleaded guilty recently to an indictment for manslaughter in connection with the death of her newly-born girl February 10.

The woman appeared in court Saturday morning and considerable testimony concerning the circumstances of the death of the infant was heard by Judge Gowdy, who deferred passage of sentence because she desires to make a further investigation into the matter.

THIRD VICTIM OF JAMAICA GINGER

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—With the death of George Busco, 45, in a local hospital, county health officials today recorded the third death in southern Ohio which was due directly to drinking a Jamaica ginger compound.

More than 100 other persons are suffering from the ailment in Hamilton County.

Busco's legs were paralyzed before he succumbed.

DRYS DEFEATED

LONDON, March 29.—Dry advocates in Australia have been hopelessly defeated in the prohibition referendum conducted throughout the province of Victoria, according to dispatches from Melbourne today.

LILA JIMERSON NOT TO TESTIFY DURING TRIAL FOR MURDER

Defense Afraid To Let Indian Girl Take Stand

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 29.—Lila Jimerson, "the red lilac of the Cayugas," on trial for the hammer murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, and probably will not take the stand in her own defense. It was indicated today that her attorneys have concluded her ends would be best served by keeping her out of the witness box.

The dark-eyed Lila is such a strange and unmanageable personality her lawyers are not sure that she would do or say if she took the stand. They have conferred with her time and again in the Erie County jail where she is held when not in court and while their minds have been open on the question of whether or not it would be advisable for her to testify, she has not yet convinced them she would be a good witness for herself.

Lila entertains a feeling of disappointment, bordering on anguish, toward her former sweetheart, Henri Marchand, the distinguished sculptor who played with her love and who is the husband of the woman who was slain by the old Indian woman, Nancy Bowen, allegedly at the instigation of Lila. It is no secret among Lila's close Indian friends that she still cares for Marchand, the vagabond lover, who casually admitted on the stand his "affair" with Lila and his romances with many other women, none of whom he took seriously.

Time and again during the questioning of prospective jurors, Lila's attorneys asked this question: "Would you be prejudiced against the defendant if she did not take the witness stand?" If they replied in the affirmative they were immediately challenged.

Lila's lawyers realize that her failure to testify might imply guilt to the minds of certain jurors and that is why they are finding it so difficult to definitely make up their minds on the question of whether she should or should not testify.

There was no session of the trial today, the case having been adjourned late yesterday when the state rested until Monday.

The defense has maintained the greatest secrecy as to the procedure it will adopt in the effort to break down the admittedly strong case District Attorney G. B. Moore has built up against Lila. While Marchand was the most spectacular witness produced by the state, the witness who gave the most damaging testimony against Lila was old Nancy Bowen.

"Ma" Bowen, who has also been indicted for the murder of Mrs. Marchand and who is to be tried later, did not spare herself or Lila in revealing the manner in which the slaying was planned and carried out. The superstitious old Indian woman told how she had been influenced by letters which led her to believe Mrs. Marchand was a "witch" who was responsible for the death of her husband "Sassafras Charlie" Bowen, and who planned to kill her and five other persons. These letters, the state contends, were written by Lila.

When Mrs. Marchand might feel free to make love to her. The state also proved through Mrs. Bowen's testimony that Lila accompanied Nancy to Buffalo the day of the murder and that Lila bought the hammer which was used by Mrs. Bowen when she slew the sculptor's wife. Not only that

HUGE GLASS MERGER

TOLEDO, O., March 29.—A consolidation which created the largest sheet glass and one of the biggest plate glass manufacturing concerns of the country today had been consummated by the merger of the Edward Ford Glass Company and the Libbey-Owens Company, both of Toledo. Assets of $50,000,000 were brought together by the merger.

CAUSE OF PARALYZING DRINK FOUND

The mystery of America's new paralyzing drink has been solved according to James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner. It is a "sheep dip" cocktail, containing 80 or 90 per cent alcohol, a small flavoring of ginger extract and crotonate or crude carbolic acid. In the above photo, Dr. W. V. Lindner, of the prohibition bureau, Washington, is seen making tests.

SENATE FURORE OVER STIMSON PROPOSAL GROWING GREATER

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Senatorial furore over Secretary of State Stimson's expressed willingness to put the United States into some form of a political consultation pact at the London naval conference widened and spread today. The opposition in the senate to any form of political pact at London has now reached such proportions that if Secretary Stimson

SCANDAL IN LORAIN POLITICS EXPOSED DURING LIBEL CASE

Newspaperman Tells In Deposition Of "Framing" Plot

ELYRIA, O., March 29.—The alleged "scandal history" of Lorain's municipal government was an open book today as the result of testimony introduced here into the trial of the $50,000 libel suit brought by William J. Peer, Lorain real estate broker, against Samuel Horvitz, as owner and David Gibson, as publisher of the Lorain Journal.

The libel suit was brought by Peer in connection with an alleged libelous statement published in the Lorain newspaper referring to Peer and his brother, Michael as "Lorain run kings."

Testimony introduced in the form of a deposition from Emil Calman, former Lorain newspaperman, recounted his dismissal by Mayor William J. Grall as service director and the subsequent activities of Horvitz in an alleged attempt to have Grall "canned" as mayor.

Calman's deposition related that he had been appointed service director in return for the support of the Lorain Journal in Grall's campaign for re-election.

"Horvitz was enraged at my dismissal," Calman's deposition read. "He went to Columbus to see Governor Harry L. Davis and try to have Grall impeached."

Calman also alleged in his deposition that Horvitz sought him to "frame" Grall.

ANOTHER VILLAGE HIT BY PARALYSIS

URBANA, O., March 29.—A mild epidemic of partial paralysis, growing, it is believed out of the drinking of a Jamaica ginger compound, has hit Mechanicsburg, near here, according to reports from that town today.

About a dozen persons, all men, have been stricken. Mechanicsburg druggists, however, report that no Jamaica ginger had been sold in their stores in recent weeks.

BUY RUBBER PLANT

BUENOS AIRES, O., March 29.—C. F. Michael, and his son, Walter J. Michael, of Bucyrus, today had purchased the $450,000 plant and equipment of the defunct Columbia Tire and Rubber Company, at Mansfield, from the industrial plants corporation of New York City. The new owners declined to say what they expect to do with the property.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT OF CORONER RESULT OF INQUEST

Lack Of Witnesses Handicaps Probe In Kingsbury Case

A verdict of accidental death was announced Saturday by Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, Greene County coroner, following a formal inquest held Friday into the circumstances of the death of Robert H. Kingsbury, 39, prominent Xenia merchant and Boy Scout leader, who was injured fatally in an auto accident, March 14 at the intersection of the Xenia-Fairfield and Dayton-Yellow Springs roads.

Richard Jones, 18, Osborn, whose car collided with that of Kingsbury, was absolved of responsibility for the crash, Coroner Haines declaring that lack of eye-witnesses of the collision made it impossible to blame the youth for the accident. Jones had been subpoenaed and was present at the inquest, but refused to testify, on the advice of his counsel, Attorney F. L. Johnson.

According to the coroner's verdict, neither Kingsbury nor Jones saw the other at the intersection. This fact was indicated by the testimony, which was insufficient to permit the fixing of responsibility for the accident, the coroner said.

Testimony of George Moody, Byron, a student of Cedarville College, one of the twenty-two witnesses who were examined, who claimed to have been an eye-witness of the collision, appeared in favor of Jones, Coroner Haines said.

Moody was driving from Osborn to Xenia and testified that the Jones car passed him at the crest of a hill more than one-tenth of a mile from the road junction where the two machines collided.

The fact Jones admitted to friends he was watching the clock on his car and did not glance up again to the road until almost the moment of the crash, was also testified by several witnesses.

Examination of witnesses was conducted by Coroner Haines and Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall.

DAGUE QUIZZED IN TRIAL FOR MURDER

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 29.—Glenn Dague, former automobile salesman who followed Irene Shrader into a sordid career of crime and into a courtroom where an impassive jury watches his desperate fight to escape the death chair, today resumed the witness stand for cross-examination by Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti.

On direct examination yesterday, Dague told his story of the shooting of Corporal Brady Paul of the State Highway Patrol last December 27. Dague's own testimony, in which he admitted firing at Paul, was placed in the record and may constitute his sole defense.

Dague said he fired only one shot and this shot, he admitted, came from a .38 calibre Spanish pistol. It was from this type of pistol that came the bullet which snuffed out the life of Corporal Paul, according to testimony offered earlier in the day by Louis Marr, ballistic expert.

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

CLEVELAND, O., March 29.—Five persons were injured, two being seriously, when the automobiles in which they were riding collided at West Boulevard and Lake Avenue here today.

The persons seriously hurt are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joselyn of Lakewood. Their automobile completely overturned after the collision. Three persons riding in the other machine were only slightly hurt in the crash.

MAY EXHUME BODY IN DEATH PROBE

NORWALK, March 29.—Authority was sought here today to exhume the body of Fred Miller, 65-year-old recluse, who was found dead in his home last Sunday.

Theories that the aged man may have been a victim of murder were advanced when it was learned that bloodstains found by county officials in the house had been removed by some unauthorized person. Officials believe the man was perhaps slain for $23 he was said to have had shortly before he died. Relatives of the recluse have asked the investigation.

WOMAN KIDNAPED

Detroit police have arrested two farmers from near Sandusky, Mich., in an effort to solve the kidnapping of Mrs. Elsie Mills of Detroit. She escaped her captors, although bound hand and foot to the driver's seat of her car, when the men left her to assist their trailing companion who had got stuck in the mud.

FRENCH DELEGATES ARE NOT SATISFIED OVER NEGOTIATIONS

Group Pessimistic Over
Attitude Of Great Britain

LONDON, March 29.—The political negotiations between Great Britain and France struck a snag today.

The French delegation let it be known that it considers the security concessions Britain is prepared to make entirely unsatisfactory and insufficient. The negotiations, however, are continuing.

An expert attached to the French delegation visited Ambassador Dwight Morrow today and explained the present status of the negotiations. His report was pessimistic.

The British and French are trying to work out a security arrangement which will enable France to reduce materially her tonnage demands.

International News Service today again attempted to question Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson concerning reports he and President Hoover were at odds on the question of American participation in a consultative pact. His only answer was an enigmatic smile.

There will be no move, or conversations, about consultative treaties, by the American delegation until France, Britain and Italy reach understandings on their problems.

While all the talk here about consultative pacts in which the Americans would participate has given a new note of optimism to the conference, the storm of protest at home against the United States entering into any entangling security agreements, has had effect. It was learned that some of the delegations looked upon the consultative treaty idea as meaning that another pact similar to the four-power agreement at Washington in 1922 would be effected. But this, it is reliably stated, is far from the truth.

For article two of the Pacific agreement, which America, Britain, France and Japan signed says: "If the said rights are threatened by the aggressive action of any other power, the high contracting powers shall communicate with one another fully and frankly in order to arrive at an understanding as to the most efficient measures to be taken, jointly or separately, to meet the exigencies of the particular situation."

The United States agreed to that article because of American interests in the Pacific, Guam, the Philippines and Hawaii, but there are no such interests in this conference, which has to do with the Atlantic and Mediterranean.

The American delegation departed today for the usual week-end rest.

BANDITS GET $16,000

ST. LOUIS, March 29.—Three bandits who apparently had kept an all night vigil in the bank held up and robbed the Park-Savings Trust Company of St. Louis County of $16,000 today.

FOUR OTHERS HURT, ANOTHER BELIEVED BURIED IN DEBRIS

Heavily Loaded Upper Floors Blamed For Collapse

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—With two men known to be dead and with four others injured, one perhaps fatally, as the result of the collapse of a four-story building here yesterday, rescue crews, numbering 200 persons, labored feverishly today to clear away part of the debris where another man is believed to have been buried alive.

Hundreds of tons of ruined roofing paper, which were stored on the upper two floors of the building, are believed to have caused the collapse of the structure.

The first body, that of Carl Westermordt, 24, a stenographer, was extracted from the ruins shortly after midnight today. Harry Haverkamp, aged 18, a clerk, was taken from the wreckage of the building alive, but he died a short time later.

Robert G. Marks, 28, who was installing a recording device on one of the lower floors, suffered a fractured skull and will probably die, according to physicians. John Stephens, 18, a stenographer, Robert Thomas, 35, and Monroe Henton 32, the latter two Negro laborers are the other injured.

Howard Manifold, 19, a shipping clerk, who was working on the second floor at the time of the building crash, is missing and he is reported to have been buried alive in the ruins.

The Southeast Joselyn Company, electrical dealer, occupied the two lower floors of the building, and the Flintlock Company, roofing supply manufacturer, used the third and fourth stories for a warehouse.

Wrecking crews, laborers and firemen, carried on the work of removing the debris early today. The 200 men, comprising the group, labored feverishly in an almost forlorn hope of reaching the entombed man alive.

FOIL MOVE TO BOMB CITY HALL

Find Dynamite In New Building

GARY, Ind., March 29.—Four sticks of dynamite were found today in one of the entrances of the city hall here in what police believe was a plot to blow up the building.

A box of fuse caps was found near the dynamite, but the caps had not been affixed to the sticks of explosive. An immediate investigation was begun on the theory that the supposed plot was the outgrowth of Mayor R. C. Johnson's vigorous drive against liquor, vice and gambling in the city.

Roy McConnell, who found the dynamite, police said, probably frightened the dynamiters before they could complete their destructive mission.

The city hall is not yet two years old and was erected at a cost of $1,000,000.

DELAWARE JUDGE TO HEAR GASKILL CASE

WILMINGTON, O., March 29.—Common Pleas Judge H. W. Jewell, of Delaware County, today had been selected by Chief Justice Marshall to preside at the trials of five officials and a trucking contractor, who are charged with having participated in the alleged fraudulent handling of Clinton County road work.

The first trial, which will start April 7, will be that of County Auditor Harry Gaskill.

Dates for the trials of C. C. Terrell, Frank Richardson and Dennis Stephens, county commissioners; L. I. Frazier, Wilmington contractor, and Harry Moon, Clark Township trustee, who were indicted with Gaskill, were not set.

JAP CREW RESCUED AFTER SHIPWRECK

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—Rescued after the Japanese freighter Rhine Maru crashed on the rocky shore off Point Sur, about 100 miles south of here, the crew of thirty-eight today was being brought to San Francisco on the steamer Humboldt. The ship went ashore while the California coast was shrouded in fog.

A second ship, the lumber schooner Clermont, groping her way through the fog, crashed on the rocks of Point Bonita in the Golden Gate. Although the Clermont was waterlogged and sinking, the captain succeeded in running his ship back into San Francisco Bay and beached her on a sandy ledge off Crissy Field.

Girl Pilot Holds 3 Records at 18

Elinor Smith is the holder of three world's flying records—and she is only eighteen. In a few days she is going to take tests for a commercial pilot's license and when she passes she will be qualified to compete with men in every branch of aviation. She was only eight years old when she took her first air ride, and made her first solo flight four years ago. On January 13, 1929 she stayed in the air over Roosevelt Field, L. I., thirteen hours April, 1929 she set an endurance mark of 26 hours 21 minutes and 32 seconds. Within a few days the records will credit to Miss Smith an altitude record of around five miles. The barograph which she carried to something between 30,000 and 32,000 feet is being celebrated.

EUROPEANS SEEK TO REACH MOON WITH ROCKET

Numerous attempts to shoot a rocket to the moon are being made in central Europe. The most successful to date has been the attempt of Ludvik Ocenasek, Czechoslovakian inventor, near Prague. PROPOSED SCHOOL
ROUND-UP SUBJECT OF P. T. A. MEETING

Miss Clara Schmidt of the state department of health at Columbus, who is sent to this city to make arrangements for the pre-school round-up which will be conducted this summer, was introduced at a meeting of the council of the Parent Teacher Association at Central High School, Friday afternoon.

Miss Schmidt, who is a trained nurse, explained in detail the importance of a pre-school clinic and how it will be conducted. The clinic is for all children of the city who will enter school next year.

The summer round-up is backed by the national congress of parents and teachers and has been held in all parts of the country.

The children will be given a complete physical examination and it is urged that defects pointed out by the physician in charge, will be taken care of during the summer so the child can enter school next fall in perfect health.

Louis Hamer, superintendent of Xenia schools, urged all parents to take advantage of the clinic and said in his address that one-fourth of the first grade children are repeat-ers due to physical defects.

The round-up in Xenia will be held the first week in June. The Greene County Medical Society, Miss Emma Lyon, executive secretary of the American Red Cross, Miss Mary Smith, city health nurse and Mrs. Agnes Hurley will assist in doing the work. Details and committees for the clinic will be announced at a later date.

Mrs. Paul Turnbull, Mrs. J. J. Stout, Mrs. L. S. Hyman and Miss Rosetta Frazee, compose the publicity committee for the clinic.

JACOB SMITH DIES
SATURDAY MORNING
FROM LONG ILLNESS

Jacob N. Smith, 80, retired farmer, died at his home 659 S. Detroit St., Saturday morning at 9:15 o'clock following a serious illness of two weeks. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Smith was born near New Jasper, December 18, 1850 and spent all his life there until twenty-two years ago when he moved to Xenia. He married Anna S. Sutton, August 1, 1872 and she preceded him in death three years.

He is survived by five children: Elton Smith, Mrs. George Sutton, Marion Smith, Wilbur Smith and Mrs. Pearl Tucker, all of Xenia; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild; and the following brothers and sisters: Matt Smith of Alpha, Daniel Smith of Xenia, Mrs. Mary Brown, New Jasper and C. N. Smith, Jamestown.

Funeral services will be held at the First M. E. Church, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends may meet at the residence at 1:30 o'clock. Burial will be made in Jamestown Cemetery. Friends may call at the residence Sunday afternoon after 3 o'clock.

WILL FACE CHARGE

Frank Demmy, 43, Yellow Springs, who is alleged by police to have driven his auto into the rear end of a roadster owned by Vernon Walker and parked in front of his home at 731 W. Second St., at 10:45 p. m. Friday, entered a not guilty plea to a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated when arraigned before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Saturday morning. His hearing was assigned for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The roadster was damaged but Demmy was unhurt.

Miss Elizabeth Irwin, crowned at the annual dance, Result Of Popular Vote.

Selected as the most popular girl student attending Xenia Central High School, Miss Elizabeth Irwin, petite brunette, was crowned "Queen of the Buccaneers" at the second annual Buccaneer Hop, held in honor of the Central High basketball team, thrice champions of the Miami Valley League, Friday night in the school gymnasium.

Miss Irwin, a senior, was chosen for the honor by popular vote of the student body conducted through the medium of the Central High "Review," school weekly. The result of the vote was revealed at the dance introduction by Principal F. R. Woodruff.

Harold Bull and Miss Jean Marshall, president and vice president, respectively, of the senior class, informed her of her selection and brought her to the door of the gym, where two escorts led her to a throne. She was crowned with roses by Principal Woodruff.

From her seat on the raised dais, Miss Irwin surveyed the procession as the couples filed past her in a grand march.

In the balloting for the selection of "Queen of the Buccaneers," fourteen senior girls received votes, Miss Irwin received eighty votes while Miss Alice Hagler ranked second and the Misses Jean

Star Gazing
By RADIE HARRIS

Real name is Greta Louisa Gustafsson. Born Sept. 18, 1905, at 32 Blekingegatan St., in a remote part of Sweden called Montmartre. Left school at early age to aid family finances. Was soap girl in barber shop and military salesgirl in department store. Posed for photographs of hats to illustrate catalogue and attracted attention of film producer.

Recommended for scholarship in Dramatic School of Royal Theater in Stockholm. Passed test by playing scene from "Madame Sans Gêne."

Met Louis B. Mayer, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, during personal appearances in Berlin. Was completely ignored by him in favor of her director, Maurice Stiller, who was offered Hollywood contract. Refused to accept unless his promise was also included. As a "beau geste," she was signed at $50 a week.

Arrived in Hollywood, July, 1925. When studio officials saw her, they wanted to send her back immediately. Same officials will now tell you they recognized her genius at once.

A Star By Acclaim
Created a sensation in first picture, "The Torrent." Elevated to stardom by popular demand after fourth picture. Is now considered the greatest single box office draw in the country.

Detests publicity. When she returned to Sweden recently for first visit in three years, registered at hotels and on boat under assumed name. Shuns interviews and refuses to talk if anyone is allowed on set.

Is rarely seen in public, and never recognized when she is.

POMONA GRANGE HAS MEETING HERE; TO HAVE FAIR EXHIBIT

When Greene County Pomona Grange met with Xenia Grange here Wednesday a business session was held with Guy H. Gordon, Pomona Master, presiding.

A discussion as to whether the Granges of Greene County would exhibit at the fair this summer occupied most of the time. A conference between the Fair Board and a committee representing the Greene County Granges was held later in the day which resulted in a discussion that Grange work be exhibited this year.

At the Pomona meeting a vote was also taken whereby the Grange adopted the projects being sponsored by the State Deputy Masters' Association this year. Those placed on the Greene County Grange project committee are: Deputy Master of the County, the Pomona Master, the Pomona Lecturer and the Masters of the subordinate Granges of the county.

The lecture hour was composed of the following: Musical selections, Xenia Grange Orchestra—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fudge, Ross Huston, Mr. and Mrs. Erle Hutchison and Joseph Hutchison.

Table: "My Experiences While Attending the Grange Lecturers' Course at Ohio State University in February," by Mrs. Elsie J. Campbell, lecturer for Pomona.

Stunt: "Something You Have Never Seen Before and Will Never See Again," by members of the Grange.

Talk: "The Projects Adopted and Sponsored by the State Deputy Masters' Association for this year," S. H. Shawhan, state deputy master of Greene County.

Guessing games: "What Your Wife's Name Should Be," Prize won by Paul Harner.

Musical selections: "Xenia Grange Orchestra; "Sheep Song," by Ross Huston accompanied by Mrs. Fudge.

A covered dish dinner was served at noon. The next meeting will be held at Caesarcreek Grange the last Wednesday in May.

APPLIES FOR WRIT OF HABEUS CORPUS
TO RECOVER CHILD

Seeking to regain custody of Jacqueline Little, his six-year-old child, whom he alleges is being unlawfully restrained of her liberty by his former wife, Doris H. Little, at Jamestown, Davis R. Little has filed an application in Common Pleas Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

The father points out in the application that he is entitled to have possession of the child by virtue of an order of the court in October, 1929, transferring the girl's custody from the mother to him.

When Mrs. Little was granted a divorce from her husband as a result of a suit filed in 1925, she was originally awarded custody of the girl, but the order was modified in October, 1929, giving the child to the father.

The mother appealed the decision but the appeal was recently dismissed by the Greene County Court of Appeals on the ground the case should have been carried to the higher court by proceedings in error.

The Littles formerly lived in Jamestown and both have since remarried.

In the application the father charges his former wife refuses to conform with the court order and deliver the child. Attorney A. K. Kause, Dayton, represents the plaintiff.

Love's Children
Is passionately fond of children. If she ever marries, it will only be to gratify her desire for a family.

Until recently lived at hotel in Santa Monica, Now owns home in Beverly Hills. Lives alone with colored maid and Great Dane.

Never takes anyone into her confidence.

Love's jazz music. Buys all popular hits and memorizes every tune.

Is devoted to her family. Contends that greatest satisfaction wealth has brought her is being able to provide her mother with luxuries of life. Has younger brother on screen in Sweden.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God, thou art very great; thou art clothed with honour and majesty. Who coverest thyself with light as with a garment: who stretchest out the heavens like a curtain.—Psalm, civ, 1, 2.

PROFITABLE GARDENS

The day of the small garden is arriving. No longer does the impression prevail that it is only the fellow who makes a business of it that can raise vegetables for the table, facts of which we are reminded as we read what Florence Eaton Taft, magazine writer, has to say on the subject.

Why not reset the clothes posts this spring so that they take less room and then spade up the back yard for a garden, she suggests. Few back yards are too small for a garden, particularly a combination garden that will keep the family in flowers and vegetables throughout the summer.

The small garden, continues this authority, has the advantage, at least, of not requiring a prohibitive amount of work for its upkeep; many a back-yard garden might be attempted by a busy housewife or office-bound business man who could not even consider planting and caring for a large space. The convenience of this intimate planting, also, is a great consideration. Often one can just step out and put in a few moments of work—or play—when a less accessible garden could have no allure. Fresh flowers for one's vase are cut in a trice, an onion and carrot for one's ragout are pulled in a second, lettuce and tomatoes for the salad are selected with ease and dispatch. And as for pure pleasure, compare a back yard exploited as thus suggested, and one that is bare, uninteresting, and devoid of all variety and charm!

If flowers are to be the high-light of a garden combining both vegetables and blossoming plants, slenderly-growing vegetables may be used as borders for beds of different flowers. Beets, carrots, onions, lettuce, and parsley make lovely edges; a seed may be tucked in when a root is pulled out. One vine of Japanese climbing cucumber, trellised, will supply many a salad; the yellow plum tomato (one plant), supported, will yield innumerable garnishes; pole beans, garlanded from pole to pole, make effective and bountiful boundaries for beds of colorful bloom. What could be prettier, for instance, than an edging of ruby-red beets to a bed of orange calandulas? Or green lettuce bordering brilliant annual larkspur? Be sure, if any vegetables are included, to plant a row of bush lima or sieva beans; they are all-season bearers, and even a short row will yield a crop that will be sure to be profitable.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

Already people on this earth are worrying over whether or not the newly discovered planet is inhabited. One thing is certain: It isn't! It hasn't any crime wave.

We suppose it would be too much to ask the opposing wet and dry orators to concede that there may be some honesty in the enemy camp.

Another thing we should like to know is what percentage of those who wore green carnations on the 17th carried a brogue.

Casualties among prison guards make it appear that life within prison walls is nearly as precarious as it is outside them.

We suppose the assurance by President Hoover that business depression will be a thing of the past in sixty days is based a little on an assumption that the senate will have acted on the tariff bill by that time.

There might be a far worse condition than the one which would arise if the United States, Great Britain and Japan should decide to take charge of world peace on the seas and tell the other powers what they can do.

The equestrian mantle of Great Britain's heir apparent seems to have descended upon Colonel Lindbergh.

UNDER THE BRIDGE

"Under the bridge" is a motto which some of us might well adopt. We are too much given to fretting about something which has already happened and which cannot be remedied or changed. Acts that we have done or left undone, circumstances that have gone beyond our power to better or to change are like water that has gone under the bridge. It will not come back. It will never run between those banks again. When you are inclined to be miserable because of what you might have done and didn't or because of what you did and shouldn't have done, just say: "Under the bridge," and let it go at that.

OUR OWN JOB

It is said that most men "knock" their own jobs but would fight to keep from doing anything else. This paragraph is written on an ocean liner coming up from Bermuda, so-called paradise of the Atlantic. One of the passengers on a holiday is a sea pilot. Having a couple of weeks with nothing to do he goes to sea. Doubtless like other men he has told his wife, family, and friends that he is sick and tired of being a pilot. Down in his heart he knows better. He loves the sea. No matter what your job, if you have had it a number of years you build up a loyalty for it. You don't really want to do anything else. You just say you do. If you are a shoemaker you would rather make shoes than live in a palace, though at the end of a tired day you may deny it. Most of us get around to doing what we prefer to do, though like little boys with tantrums we get a sort of satisfaction in complaint.

TURNING BACK TIME

Poets and others lament happy days that are gone. We cannot live life over again. There is no substitute for youth, and youth cannot be recalled. Songs of the gay nineties make us misty and sentimental. Perhaps it isn't quite true that you can't go back. Go to Bermuda and live again in the gay nineties. No motor cars. Just horses and buggies and bicycles, especially bicycles. Nobody is in a great rush at these tropical islands 600 miles off the Carolina coast. Life moves at slow pace. Strangely enough the people—there are 23,000 on the islands—seem every bit as happy as we do in the United States where we live with our foot of the accelerator and our eye on the clock.

What's the rush and what are you going to do when you get there?

The Morris Chair

Who originated the Morris chair? This piece of furniture which now is copied in many variations was originated about the year 1861 by William Morris, an English poet and artist, who was particularly interested in social reform. His interest in matters of social reform led him to make efforts to raise the standard of household taste. The invention of the chair with a cushioned seat and hinged back, adjusted to various reclining positions, was one result of this interest.

Regardless of Depth

Will a cubic foot of iron or any weight sink to the bottom of the ocean? The Hydrographic office of the United States navy department states that a body heavier than an equal amount of water will sink to the bottom of the ocean.

SQUARE SHOOTER

Sammy Taub, Tammany Town's premier radio fight announcer, furnishes a splendid example of a man following Kipling's advice about "walking with crowds and keeping your virtue." Everyone knows that the "cauliflower industry" isn't characterized by the odor of sanctity; yet, after 20 years in the rough and tumble of fight writing, Sammy has the reputation today of being one of the squarest shooters on the sidelines.

His father was a peddler—a self-respecting Jewish gentleman, left single handed to rear a brood of kids. Growing up in the wetter of modern sophistry, one or two of the oracles became scrambled in Sammy's case. But one day his father asked him as a favor, not to smoke from sundown Friday until candle-light on Saturday. That was a long time ago, and I've watched Sammie, many a time, toss away half a fragrant cheroot and go smokeless twenty-four hours—honoring his old dad's predilection.

Darned if there isn't something inspiring in that!

FATE

Sombody said that a man might become a millionaire if he could figure out the exact minute a piece of junk becomes an antique. The same principle applies to the theatre business. If a producer could only tell what's going to make a hit with the public he could retire after a season or two. Broadway's latest hit, "The Green Pastures," was turned down by such sharps as Jed Harris, Arthur Hopkins, The Theatre Guild and Crosby Gage.

Rowland Stebbins, a retired Wall Street man, with his bankroll still in court plaster and arnica from the recent flop of "Magie the Magnificent," took a WASHINGTON—A new planet is a piece of real estate to astronomers like those at Lowell observatory.

How big is it? What is its climate? How long is its day? Is it a salubrious? Has it an interesting history? Such questions as these occur first to scientists of the type of the star gazers at Flagstaff (Ariz.) when the telescope unexpectedly brings a hitherto unknown (though guessed at) world within their ken.

To astronomers like those at the naval observatory, however, a new planet is an additional lighthouse, or more practical importance of the art of navigation than anything else, and they wish to know exactly where it is.

"LOWELL has advised us, to be sure," complained Superintendent Charles S. Freeman of the navy's sidereal intelligence station on the outskirts of Washington, when I saw him the other day, waiting somewhat impatiently for more definite information from Slagstaff, "that the new trans-Neptunian planet is so-and-so many degrees west of such-and-such a point in the heavens. That is a good deal like being told by a farmer, when one is touring an unfamiliar country in a flivver, that the next town is 'a ways ahead.'"

"What we need to learn is precisely when this planet is, to enable us to train our glass right on that spot. Position is the vital consideration with the navy."

BUT will the planet be visible when the navy's telescope is pointed with absolute accuracy? And can a planet be distinguished with unfailing certainty, from an ordinary star?

"As the Lowell observatory describes its magnitude," replied Captain Freeman, "it will be just on the edge of visibility. If we can see it at all, there will be no difficulty in distinguishing it from a star. There is no possibility of confusing them. The fact is, one never actually sees a planet, but only the light it gives off. A planet is an unmistakable flat disk."

A FLAT disk! And how large?

"That depends on how large one visualizes it," said the captain. "To some people the moon looks as large as a cartwheel; to others, only as large as a dinner plate. Uranus, for example, appears to me about the size of a 50-cent piece; Neptune about the size of a dime. But of course there is considerable variation with the strength of the telescope."

SO the navy thinks of the new planet as somewhat in the nature of a landmark, from which to determine terrestrial positions. Now, of how much value will it be in this respect—as a supplement to already established landmarks.

"Well, you see," explained Captain Freeman, "our new planet has had its effect, through its gravitational influence, upon Uranus and Neptune's orbits. Indeed, it was because of the perturbations (as astronomers call them) of Uranus that the existence of Neptune originally was chance on "The Green Pastures" and will clean up.

The funny part of it is, Harris, Hopkins and the rest of them were technically correct. The show isn't worth the iron will praise that's been lavished on it.

The answer is that it was Brother Stebbins's time to collect, established mathematically before Neptune actually had been revealed by the telescope. In the same way, Neptune's perturbations (and, to some extent, Uranus's) enabled Prof. Percival Lowell, before his death, to predict that our latest planet would be sighted in due course—a prediction now verified.

"Each fresh discovery improves our calculations."

AND are we at the outermost rim at last?

"Probably not," answered the captain. "Uranus" and Neptune's behavior has hinted, not alone at one, but at three outer planets. This appears to be the first of them. Its conduct, as we observe it, promises to reveal two more."

As we observe it for how long? "Oh, maybe for 150 years," said the captain, with the casual air of a man who deals habitually in eons and trillions.

AND will THAT be the limit?—surely the sun's capacity for holding a brood of planets together must end somewhere.

"Yes, theoretically," admitted the captain.

"Still we must remember that our solar system is visited regularly by comets, which presently shoot off into space beyond the range of the highest powered telescopic photography—and yet back they come. True, we lose one occasionally, but it is beyond the realm within which we can trust the sun to hold onto a larger family of planets than we have accounted for thus far—or even detected indications of."

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

A DISAPPOINTED YOUNG DRAGON-FLY

Peter and his particular friend among the Dragon-Flies looked on as the Larva of the pool tore off his old clothes and when the brand new Dragon-Fly dropped over the reed stalk, Peter was sure he had hurt himself.

"Poor fellow, the effort was too much for him!" remarked the boy to Dragon-Fly. But that fellow knew better.

"Don't you worry a bit about the new relative of mine!" remarked the fly. "He's all tired out, sure enough, but he'll come to in a moment none the worse for his struggle. Changing from a larva to a Dragon-Fly is pretty hard work!"

"I'll say it is!" shrilled the brand new Dragon-Fly who showed sudden signs of doing just what Dragon-Fly had expected—perking up. "I feel as weak as a grub. It is hard to believe that only so short a while ago I could lick my equal in the pool."

Peter almost laughed out loud. Certainly the fellow did not look much like the strong, beautiful flier that Peter had hoped to see. The newcomer's colors were dull, they did not sparkle in the sunlight like the shades in his particular friend's coat, his body was stumpy and wet. His eyes, which should have been so big and bright, were dim and half-closed; as for wings—Peter could not see that the fellow had any, at all. Evidently the fellow was well aware of his own shortcomings, for now he said:

"All my life I have wanted to fly. When I was way down on the bottom of the pool I used to dream about the days when I could sail over the fields and streams and see for myself the sights my Dragon-Fly relatives told me about, find out how the rest of the world lived. And now what sort of wings have I? They are soft and soppy and they double up when I try to move them! How far could I fly with wings like these? As for my thoughts and eyes, what good are they? Everything looks blurred. I'd rather have back my old clear ones. And my colors? Are they pretty? They are not!"

Removing Candle Drippings
When candle wax drips on a tablecloth, garment or fabric, it can be removed easily in this manner:
Cover the wax with a clean blotter. Then heat the electric iron and pass it over the blotter several times. The heat of the iron will melt the wax and the blotter will absorb it. Then the garment can be cleaned in the usual manner.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Phobia
"Dear Doctor: Please answer this question for me, as it worries me considerably. Two girls came to my home a few days ago and sat on the sofa. One of these girls goes with a boy who lost a brother with tuberculosis about a year ago. Is it possible that these girls could get the tuberculosis germs on their clothes and leave any on my sofa? I have wiped the sofa with a damp cloth and a strong germicide, several times."

"MRS. W."
A phobia is a morbid fear or dread, with no substantial ground, dominating the mentality. You, Mrs. W., have what is known as a germ phobia.

The tuberculosis germ is killed very quickly, if in a dried state; in one-half hour, in the sunlight, and in several hours in a diffused light. Think, you are worrying now about some possible germs of a year ago being transmitted in a very round-about way!

Even taking care of a tuberculosis patient is without danger, if the right care is taken! I have quoted Webb and Ryder many times, and I will again: "If the rules as regards cough, expectoration and cleanliness are scrupulously observed, a healthy adult incurs less risk in living with a tuberculosis patient than riding downtown in an automobile."

But this does not apply to children! They should never be infected or handled or talked to directly in the face by tuberculosis patients, for children are so much more susceptible. Some physicians believe that adults really never do contract tuberculosis, and if it manifests itself in adult life, it is because of an infection contracted in childhood, which, through lowered resistance, from some cause, has become active. (This is an extreme view, in my estimation.)

Take the ordinary precautions against infectious germs, by not allowing those infected to talk directly into your face, always washing your hands before eating and keeping the resistance high by correct living; and then forget them, Mrs. W.

To reassure you, I will tell you that when I was in charge of the laboratory of the Los Angeles General hospital, when I took my internship (so many years ago I've stopped telling), being a woman, you know why? I personally examined thousands of specimens of sputum from tuberculosis patients, as well as other infected material, and I'm still alive. After every summer vacation, however, I do give some evidence of heavy consumption. But it's of food! That's my chief complaint in life. I can't eat all I want to without its giving me away. But I assure you I have no evidence of tuberculosis or any other disease. (And I won't knock on wood, either for 'tis a silly and futile gesture.)

Now, I'm sure you'll get over your germ phobia, Mrs. W. For those who are interested, we have an article on tuberculosis which has a list of books on the subject written by authorities for the layman.

"Dear Doctor: Is a daily enema for constipation injurious? Is it not a superior method for causing elimination to cathartics? Mrs. A."

Daily medium-sized enemas probably could be carried on indefinitely without any harm. Large enemas might cause a relaxation of the intestinal wall, if taken daily for long periods. Yes, the enema is better than cathartic taking for ordinary constipation, but neither of these measures should be necessary. We have an article on Constipation which will probably help you. (See column rules.)

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge" to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each column wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. ## Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

ONE has to think hard sometimes of all the fine things one knows about people to keep one's faith in human nature, because there are so many glaring instances of lives being ruined and loving hearts inexpressibly hurt by selfishness.

One has to think of mothers and fathers who have sacrificed everything for their children and never asked anything in return; of husbands who have been kind, patient and true with self-centered, nagging, complaining wives; and wives who have endured patiently and lovingly years of unfaithfulness and abuse. Of children who have given up their own happiness and chances of success because their parents needed their care.

It is necessary to think hard about all these things once in a while because we see or hear of so many instances of glaring selfishness. Of parents—mothers, especially—who cannot seem to let their children live their own lives, but must be always commanding, worrying and interfering, having hysterics because their grown children do not always find it expedient to stay at home and agree with them in all things.

The husbands and wives who seem to think they have no responsibilities towards their mates, but can go their own sweet ways, neglecting and hurting them.

It just happened that the first three letters I opened today are all from people who are suffering from selfish, self-centered relatives. DISGUSTED writes of her life with her parents-in-law. Mother-in-law dominates the young couple completely. If they go out without her (which is seldom, says the bride), she demands that they be back by nine o'clock. She tells them when to pay their bills, when to do everything and what to do, as if they were babies. Son does not mind. He is used to mother and says it's just "her way." But daughter-in-law is no little irked.

Mother-in-law works away from home and daughter keeps house. Now she proposes to go to work—as well as to keep house—that she and her young hubby may have even two rooms of their own where "we can be alone, where we can do what we want to, where we won't have to make our kisses go and come as we please, where public demonstrations, and where we won't have to whisper our dreams and plans for the future, but can discuss everything out loud. Oh, won't it be wonderful?"

It certainly will, Disgusted, and I don't blame you for wanting to go to work and make this dream come true as soon as possible. Circumstances make it impossible some times for young married couples to live by themselves, but it should always be made possible. It is the only really happy way.

Don't try to do too much and overlook, though. It's no easy matter to take care of two jobs, especially for one to whom housework is new. And in the meantime, while you have to live with your parents-in-law, try hard to cultivate a sense of humor and tolerance. Laugh things off. Don't let them get under your skin. Relax your tense muscles and nerves; get as much fun out of life as you can. It will relieve the tension and make life much easier all around.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Hair Care For Beauty Described

To begin, the hair is first brushed with strong, vigorous strokes. Then about a tablespoonful of balsam oil is poured into a small, enameled cup and allowed to heat. I advise your setting the cup in a somewhat larger basin filled with hot water. In this way the oil is kept at an even temperature.

You note that I specify balsam oil. Olive is also excellent to use for the treatment, but it has a tendency to a rather sticky, clinging odor, and it is not nearly so easy for the amateur to wash out. It is, nevertheless, very beneficial.

The hair is parted into little strands and the oil rubbed into the scalp either with the fingertips or on a little round pad of cotton. Little by little, the entire scalp is treated to this lubricating agent until all the oil is used. Then you may bring a towel out of hot water and bind it around your head. Cover this with another dry towel, pin it securely and let it stay on until cold, and then replace it with another, and another, for at least an hour. During that hour there are many things you can do. In the instance of Elizabeth, it was used to give her the first scientific face treatment she had ever known. Partly because I wanted Elizabeth to realize her own possibilities, partly because I wanted to help her to "head start" I advised a mask as her first treatment. And here I'd like to digress a little.

There are so many interesting things to tell you about masks. You have probably been asked the time-old question about what books you would take to a desert island with you. Every once in a while I find myself wondering what beauty preparations I should take. It isn't an easy thing to decide, but I know that somewhere in the first three selections would be a quart-size jar of a mask treatment. Not alone for its general beautifying effect but for those "great moments" (perhaps on the day of the rescue!) when for a quick, beautifying treatment a mask is unsurpassed.

There are dozens of records of masks in beauty history, for the mask antedates the use of all modern cosmetics. One formula I have in my collection is claimed to be over a thousand years old and is made of barley flour and honey and the white of a fresh egg.

A mask made famous by Ninon de Lenclos was made of metal sculptured to the exact shape of her face and worn to keep her features from sagging. Elizabeth's mask was much more practical and far more efficient. Of a water lily base, it was smoothed on very evenly and easily grew firm and dry in about ten minutes, and then was permitted to remain on while she had her sharp

Then, while the hair is drying, the mask may be removed. Wet towels wrung out of plenty of hot water is all you need for this. It isn't at all difficult and only takes a minute or two. Then the face is patted dry and finished with a good skin tonic.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

"We haven't a single entry from Xenia as yet. Please see if you can dig up a couple of good Simon-pure amateurs in the heavier classes."

This is the appeal we have received from the promoters of the Miami Valley Gold Glove amateur boxing classic being staged in Dayton, which is proving the biggest and best fist event ever held in this section of Ohio.

Tournament officials have announced that starting with next week's entertainment, which will be in the welter, junior-welter and flyweight ranks, the bouts will be staged in Memorial Hall. This move was made necessary because of the ever-increasing crowds that have been attending the mills.

Nine champions will be crowned in the meet which started five weeks ago and will be concluded in about six more weeks when the grand finals will be held.

Entries are still being received in the welter, middle, junior-light and heavyweight classes and prospective entrants should write The Golden Glove headquarters, Fifth at Pine, Dayton, for entry blanks. Promoters are desirous of obtaining additional entries from out of the city in the heavier ranks and there are certainly a few boys in this city who would like to compete for the cash prize of $25 which has been offered for the person who produces the winning heavyweight in the rivalry.

Next week's entertainment will be held on Wednesday while the following week will see the competition staged on Tuesday night as formerly.

Candidates for local softball teams have already begun "spring training" in preparation for the opening of the National and American League season sometime early in May. With good weather early in May, a Sunday afternoon seldom goes by when the boys are not out at Cox Field going through the motions and limbering up their arms.

Prospects are that the champion Downtown Country Club, Geyer's Lang Chevrolet Co. and Carroll-Binder Co. lines may be placed in the National League while the Critter, Kriwanke-Rotary, Company, L. and Krippendorff-Dittman Shoe Co. will be assigned to the American League. This arrangement, however, is mere guesswork on our part as this problem is up to the softball commission, recently elected and composed of Fred Baldwin, Walker Gibney and E. E. Boxwell.

The type of ball to be used this season is another matter that will have to be thrashed out by the commission. Some of the teams favor the outside seam ball and others the inside seam one because it is more lively.

If the inside seam ball is decided upon the limits of the playing field would have to be extended as the lively sphere when met squarely on the nose, travels for a far greater distance, it is said.

Dick Wells and Thurman Wical, Hoversville pitchers, are now in training with the Charlotte, N. C. nine, which is in a league playing a fast brand of Class B baseball. They left together March 1 to report for spring practice. Wical, a big right-hander, has been one of the star moundmen for Charlotte for several years, while Wells is trying out for the club this spring. Wical, a southpaw, formerly pitched for Greenfield in the K. I. O. League and also for the Xenia Reds, serving the latter part of last season, hurling the local line to so many shutout victories that we can't count them on our fingers.

Here is how E. S. Barnard, president of the American League, sizes up the teams in his league this season: "The A's have been strengthened. The Yanks are a little stronger in the outfield but not in pitching, which is a vital point. Chicago is improved. St. Louis is just as good as last year. Cleveland is just as good if not better. Detroit is a good deal better. Washington can't help but improve." (He made no mention of the lowly Red Sox.)

DAN, HARRY, LEO AND BOB HOLD HOPES OF CINCINNATI REDLEGS

Harry Heimann rowing to strengthen his hitting muscles; inset, Howley.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 29.—Not since the day Eddie Roush, Ivy Wingo, Slim Saline, the late Pat Moran and the rest of the red-headed band of 1919 awakened on a September morning to find themselves champions, have the Cincinnati Reds created as much comment in National League circles as they are doing today.

Of all the clubs in the elderly circuit the Reds are the greatest puzzle. There is no way of judging their strength, even approximately. This is due to the fact that the Red camp throngs with new players, veterans and recruits, and has a manager new to the circuit.

The Reds certainly look far better than they did at this time in 1929, but whether they will prove themselves superior to last year's form only time and summer battles can tell.

At the helm is Dan Howley, who was doing very well with the St. Louis American League club when he severed his connections there and threw in his lot with the Reds. Howley knows baseball and baseball players and he is popular.

Dan Brings Stars
With him, from the American League, Howley has brought Harry Heimann, ex-Detroit, who led the American League, in hitting four years; Bob Meusel, one-time member of the New York Yankees, "murderers" row, and Leo Durocher, a fine fielding but weak hitting shortstop, also an ex-Yank.

Whether or not the Reds will go places this summer seems to depend largely on whether or not Howley can bring Heimann and Meusel back to near their peak and teach Durocher a method by which his hitting could be brought to a higher standard.

Remember, Heimann isn't through. He batted .344 last year and hopes to be this year the first man to have led both leagues in hitting. And Meusel is a great slugger, though he had an off season in 1929. Howley likes the winning temperament displayed by Durocher.

In the infield the Reds don't look so extremely hot. The aging

George Kelly probably will have to follow first. At second there is plenty of power in Hughie Critz, a fine player, and Chick Cuccinello, an American association star last season. Durocher will try to displace Horace Ford at short. Third is still a battle between Joe Stripp, Charley Drensen and Harry Riconda.

Clyde Sukeforth and the veteran Johnny Gooch can take care of the catching.

The pitching staff is one of Howley's chief problems. Jackie May, and Red Lucas are the Reds' two best bets now, with the possibility of Pete Donohue and Doug McWeeney, who was received from Brooklyn in a trade, also breaking in as leaders.

Eppa Jephtha Rixey is probably too old for constant use. Two rookies that might come through are Benny Frey and Archie Campbell. On paper the Reds surely do not look like seventh placers, but their place this season may depend on an, at this time, unknown quantity: will Heimann and Meusel murder or miss National League curve ball pitching?

AUTO HITS CHILD

Darting in the path of an auto driven by Gilbert Plank, S. West St., as the machine turned a corner at Bellbrook Ave. and Charles St., Catherine Storer, 8, 18 Charles St., was knocked down but suffered only minor bruises at 5:30 p. m. Thursday. Plank stopped and took the child to the office of a physician, where an examination showed she was more frightened than hurt.

CHURCH PUBLICITY SUBJECT OF SPEECH HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

"A smiling face and a proffered hand make a better welcome than a whole brass band," declared Prof. K. G. Lind, head of the Wittenberg News Bureau of Wittenberg College, Springfield, here Friday night. Prof. Lind delivered an address concerning church publicity to members of the Lutheran Brotherhood in the First Lutheran Church.

The publicity director admitted that Sunday bulletins are sometimes necessary, that they are often faithfully read by ardent church members and are often sent home by visitors who travel, but they should never be substituted for a handshake.

In commenting upon some of the important men of the community he mentioned the editors of the newspapers of that locality, stating they could mould public opinion and cause good or ill will for this or that project. Prof. Lind lauded some of the efforts of editors and declared that in numerous cases they were the key men of the community.

"A new minister coming into a community should not fail to meet the editor of the local newspaper and make it a point to enlist his friendship at the earliest possible opportunity. Much of the ground work in getting good and will favor comment for the church can be done at little or no cost through the columns of the local daily newspaper and if it is well written news the editor will find a place for it even at the expense of another story." He related several instances illustrating the importance of getting news in on time, saying that the editor will usually think twice before he will "tear down" a story that is already "made-up" for another news item of similar value.

In commenting on other publicity projects for a church he averred that church houses should always be on main thoroughfares or facing parks. Glass bulletin boards, if used, should be neat and tidy and foolish slogans should not be attempted. Chimes will advertise a church. Founders Day can easily be observed annually and will help to secure public confidence in the church's ecclesiastical welfare.

"However, a careful analysis must be made of the local situation before any such publicity attempts be made," the speaker cautioned. "They all have their value and can easily be handled with proper consideration," he said.

Plans were made at the meeting for another public social event similar to the fish supper held Thursday night and which received enthusiastic favorable comment.

Some of the successful outstanding features of that gathering will be incorporated in this next event to be sponsored by the men's organization of the Lutheran Church.

BELLBROOK

Garden-makers who believed the lion had passed and the lamb had taken possession, were horrified at the return of the terror this week.

Workers in Dayton were compelled to return home Thursday morning on account of the many snow drifts that vest their way.

Mary Bowles is able to be out again after a two months' illness. Herman Giotfelter is working in Spring Valley.

William Chilton had the sad misfortune to sustain severe injuries to his arm while cranking his automobile last Wednesday evening.

Herman Saylor who has been a resident of the village since last October, moved to Carmont this week.

Perry Guthrie has moved to the farm he recently purchased from Mrs. Pearl Armstrong.

The roads were blocked to such an extent by snow drifts on Thursday as to prevent a large number of country pupils from attending school.

J. S. Turner has been confined to the house the last two weeks on account of illness.

DOWNTOWN COUNTRY CLUB HAS CINCHED CITY LEAGUE CROWN

The Downtown Country Club bowling team clinched the championship of the City League beyond even a mathematical doubt Thursday night by taking three straight games from the third-place Chappel Motor Co. The league leaders have an advantage of thirteen full games with only twelve more games remaining to be played.

Even if the D. T. C. Club quintet should lose all of its remaining games and the second-place Fuller and Sons team win all its games, one full game would still separate the two teams.

In another City League match the same evening Fuller and Sons won three games in a row from the Hooven and Allison Co., which was represented by only one bowler, E. D. Martin. G. H. Fuller had a three game total of 518. Box scores:

Greene County Scout Master's Training School will meet Monday at 7:15 p. m. in the basement of the Court House. This is the eighth of the series of ten meetings to be held, according to Homer T. Gratz, Scout field executive.

H. E. Eichman, chairman of the training class committee will be in charge of Monday evening's meeting. He will lead the discussion concerning plans for an ideal troop meeting and also for a series of meetings. Realizing the importance of the Scout program for a carefully planned meeting is bringing this matter to the attention of the Scout Master's Training School now. S. N. McClellan, Greene County Scout commissioner and E. L. Blackburn, Scoutmaster of the O. S. and S. O. Home troop, will also have a prominent part in Monday's meeting.

Members of the executive board headed by H. O. Portz, chief scout executive, Springfield, will visit the training school later in the evening. E. J. Carmony, Springfield, president of Tecumseh Council, will make a short address in which he will stress the importance of training for Scout leadership and the permanent value that men will derive from it regardless of whether they actually go into Scouting.

Keen interest is being shown at all the meetings of the training school. The men declare that it is as a result of the carefully planned meetings, the type of study, and the human interest idea for the advancement of the boys of the community.

FLORAL MESSAGE IS RECEIVED BY PAPER FROM FLOWER SHOW

A beautiful bouquet of flowers, carrying a message from the mayor of Minneapolis, William P. Kure, upon the occasion of the opening of the National Flower Show in that city, and the beginning of National Florist's Delivery Association Week, was presented Saturday to the news department of The Gazette. The gift was made through Anderson's Flower Shop by means of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association.

The National Florists Delivery Association is a world-wide organization of more than 5000 bonded florists and through its offices flowers are delivered to any part of the world where its members are located with no extra charge to the sender except the cost of the telegram or cable.

The card attached to the flowers received in the local office bears the following message: "Upon the occasion of the Eleventh National Flower Show in our city allow me to express the good will of the people of Minneapolis to the people of your city by saying it with flowers by wire."

COURT CHAMPIONS GIVEN LETTERS

LETTERS and miniature gold basketballs were awarded Friday afternoon to five members of Xenia Central High School's court squad as tokens of appreciation for their services during the recent basketball season. A letter was also awarded Hugh Espey, senior manager.

The five players who received letters and Joe Smittle, Birch Bell, John Hurley, Lester Price and Fred Dalton.

The awards took place at an assembly of the high school students and were presented by Coach Walter C. "Pinky" Wilson, who introduced each player and passed out compliments about his play during the season.

The "X's" awarded are blue with white trimming.

Of the five players honored, only two, Smittle and Hurley, are seniors and will be lost to the Bucs by graduation this year.

GIVEN AUTHORITY TO BUY BUS LINES

Application of the Central Ohio Lines, Inc., of Jamestown, to issue $18,200 of its common stock, to take over two other lines, has been granted by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission as a means of aiding in the consummation of a bus line re-organization in southern Ohio.

The Jamestown company is authorized under the commission's order to pay to J. V. Boyer, Washington, C. H., for the equipment and certificate of the Chillicothe-Washington C. H. bus line a consideration of $7,771, and to Carl Hill, Jamestown, for the equipment and certificate of the Washington C. H.-Xenia-Springfield bus line, $10,393.

Authority to sell their holding at $11,300 and $15,000, respectively, was sought in the joint application filed by Boyer and Hill. The purchasing company also asked permission to issue $24,500 stock.

WILL REPRESENT OHIO WESLEYAN

Robert Morton, 701 N. King St., Xenia, sophomore at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O., has been designated as the university's student representative in Greene County, according to announcement made by university officials Saturday.

University authorities have just named student representatives for the school in each of Ohio's eighty-eight counties. High school students who are interested in Ohio Wesleyan may go to these representatives for information concerning the university and for assistance in making application for enrollment next year. The representatives will be in their home counties during the school's spring vacation period, April 2-8, and may be seen personally by students in the county at that time.

It is reported that RKO has purchased the talkie rights to Edna Ferber's current novel, "Cimarron," the price said to be a handsome one up in six mammoth figures.

Miss Ferber is one of the few writers who has been directly affiliated with a movie company, her "So Big," starring Colleen Moore and "Show Boat" with Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut were screen "naturals."

Hollywood scenario writers—really dialogue writers now that the talkie has replaced the old silent script, are deserting their type-writers for the dictaphone.

They claim the dialogue is much more natural if spoken into a dictaphone than if written on the type-

Similarly Ginger Rogers, recently recruited from musical comedy to the screen and Stanley Smith, featured player, will head the list of entertainers on the Paramount-Public Hour over the Columbia chain at 10 p. m., E. S. T., the same night. Paul Ash and his stage show, Jesse Crawford and others will also be on the program.

Joe Brown is reported to have practically stolen the musical talkie "Hold Everything," that has just been pre-viewed in Hollywood. The audience went into convulsions over Brown's antics.

Mr. Dawson Smith went to Columbus on a business visit. It took 400 yards of carpet to cover the aisles and other walks and platforms of the new First United Presbyterian Church.

The Central Electric Supply Co. has sold a big Buick touring car to W. H. Donges. Mr. Edmund Munger left Monday night after the concert, given under the auspices of the Women's Music Club, for St. Louis.

writer, since there is too much chance in writing for words to creep in which have literary, rather than speaking, value.

William McNutt and Grover Jones, dialogue writing team, are using the dictaphone method. Each takes half the story, they talk it over, and then each dictates his half. Afterward they go over each others work. They completed the script of "The Light of Western Stars" in twelve dictaphone cylinders but corrections and changes made them use more than fifty before finished.

The talkies have also been responsible for another innovation, introduced by Mary Lewis, opera star, when she signed with E. B. Derr, vice president of Pathe. Instead of writing out a contract on paper and signing it in the conventional way, the two made a talking picture of their obligation, speaking the terms and shaking hands in conclusion. Two copies were made of the celluloid, one for each. Miss Lewis is reported to have signed at a rate of $4,000 a minute.

Famous musical shows of the stage and screen with the original stars in the title roles will be brought before the microphone in a new series to be inaugurated by National Broadcasting Co. from San Francisco Saturday night, April 5. Bebe Daniels, singing the role she made famous in "Rio Rita," will headline the initial of-

LILA JIMERSON NOT TO TESTIFY DURING TRIAL FOR MURDER

but the state also brought out that Lila accompanied Mrs. Bowen to the Marchand home a week prior to the slaying and pointed out the victim.

Marchand proved to be a good witness for himself.

Lila's lawyers were unable during cross examination to shake his story that he had no advance knowledge that his wife was to be slain. He said with brutal frankness that he never loved Lila nor any of the other women with whom he "played around." The only woman he ever really loved was his wife with whom he had lived for thirty-two years. He declared he had never suggested marriage to Lila. His "affair" with Lila was dictated by "professional necessity." He was a sculptor of Indian groups and he needed a woman of Lila's type to pose for him.

Henri Marchand, Jr., his 12-year-old son, clinched the phillandering artist's story when he testified his father and mother were always on the best of terms and that he had never known them to quarrel.

Consider a few of the basic facts that make the new Chevrolet Six such a thoroughly sound investment.

It offers a great six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, with its capacity increased to 50 horsepower . . . assuring the smooth, quiet, resilient performance which is so essential in a modern automobile.

It offers the all-weather braking efficiency of internal-expanding, completely enclosed, 4-wheel brakes—big, powerful, quiet and extremely easy to apply.

It offers the modern riding comfort of four long semi-elliptic, chrome-vanadium steel springs—under the cushioned control of Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers.

It offers the greater beauty, comfort and safety of bodies by Fisher—built of selected hardwood and steel . . . providing thousands upon thousands of miles of quiet, care-free service.

It offers scores of individual features that contribute to the pleasure and convenience of present-day motoring—

—a new Fisher VV non-glare windshield; foot-controlled, twin-beam headlamps; adjustable driver's seat in all closed models; dash gasoline gauge; and safety gasoline tank, located in the rear of the car.

With all these important advancements—coupled with greatly reduced prices for the entire Chevrolet line—it is only logical that thousands are saying every day—"The New Chevrolet Six is a wise motor car investment!"
